What is ClubCISO?

ClubCISO is a private members' forum for senior leadership, designed to facilitate informal discussions, independent of vendors, on information security and cyber resilience in the organisation.

Through regular debate, networking and anonymous surveys, ClubCISO members can benchmark their security investments and implementations against their peers, grow their networks and improve buy-in at board level.

The forum hosts robust discussion around meeting the changing challenges of the IS landscape and about raising common standards.

Previous events have attracted members from finance, government, legal, logistics, manufacturing, media, retail, telco and many other sectors. Last year's results indicated:

- Security education and training for senior executives is of increasing concern
- Lack of confidence in readiness to comply with the upcoming GDPR legislation
- Continued tension in relationship between security leadership and the board

There'll be robust discussion around how to meet these and other challenges, and the event will be followed up by a detailed report to help you drive security up your organisation's agenda.

Refreshments will be served, and you're welcome to join us for an informal drink after the session.
