

Invitation-Only ClubCISO Debate
Powered by Company85

Securing the Supply Chain

How can we move towards a symbiotic relationship with our third parties?

Thursday 9th November 2017 ~ 6pm GMT
South Place Hotel
3 South Place, London, EC2M 2AF

Facilitated by Marc Lueck,
Chairman of ClubCISO

Powered by Company85
accomplish more™

This year's ClubCISO Maturity Report demonstrated that we are still not confident that we can trust our supply chains: fewer than 40% had a reasonable level of confidence in the way their third parties actually manage security (Q25).

This Chairman's Dinner will bring together a small group of ClubCISO members to discuss the topic Securing the Supply Chain. Themes for discussion will include:

- Questionnaires: when do they work and how can we improve them?
- Are any of the tools currently on the market adequate to deal with our problems?
- When we do find the risks, how do we manage them?
- How can we move away from implicit trust to start relying on explicit measures?
- What role should the CISO play in selecting and signing-off new third party suppliers?

There are only 12 places available so please register your interest early.

We will also hold 2 places in reserve in case of any last minute drop outs.

Why attend?

ClubCISO Debates provide an opportunity for members to discuss hot topics, share their issues and best practice, and network with their peers in a safe and congenial environment.

Where?

The South Place Hotel is an elegant boutique hotel situated near Liverpool Street Station. Join us in their impeccably designed private dining room for a three course meal and drinks.

Chatham House Rules

Strictly no selling. A paper based on the conversation will be published after the event. Organisation names will be referenced but no comments will be personally attributable.

RSVP to team@clubciso.org